REINFORCEMENTS.

Following the clash between the Temples and Rose Brett and the clear decision that grew out of it life moved along more comfortably for every one. True, there was to be competition between the oddly assorted teams—Carter Brett and Cora Temple and Rose Brett and David. But they knew their positions now. They worked in the open. There was understanding, if not complete harmony of thought. The bone of former contention—Valley Tract—was definitely committed to the "swimming hole" proposition sponsored by Cora. The more elderly householders of Colony Park preferred Rose Brett's idea of the doped-up Italian garden. But the young folks stuck staunchly to Cora and the bathing pool.

Youth has a way of winning out—at least in the America, and especially in extremely new suburbs of extremely wealthy young towns. The lads and lassies simply talked their parents into it. And the work of construction was already under way.

Carter Brett, for years eclipsed by his brilliant wife, seemed to renew his youth in forwarding the scheme—the first about which he had ever dared to differ with Rose. But, like the kind-hearted husband he was, he soon cast about to find something by means of which to appease his wife and win back the placidly affectionate relations which his sudden self-assertion had strained.

Cora Temple found herself hard put to keep the footing she had worked so bravely for. Mrs. Brett kept her husband's attention as closely as possible upon her interests and he could not find it in his heart to deny her. She found ways of delaying the work on Valley Tract. She made demands on David's time, too, which interfered with his other work and often kept him away from home and out of reach of Cora by telephone. She would come unexpectedly into the office where Cora was talking over maps and plans with Carter Brett, flinging veiled sneers and making them both feel uncomfortable without knowing why.

Cora longed with all her heart to break her promise not to coquette with Rose's husband. If she had the "name" why not the "game." Temptation whispered. Especially with such advantages to gain.

But she kept rigidly to her word. It was with almost hilarious feelings of triumph, therefore, that she found in her mail one morning a letter from Wanda Laurence, dated Pittsburgh.

Dear old girl: Been playing an engagement here, but company closes this season Saturday night and I'm wondering if you'd take pity on a poor, weary creature who needs a bath and a rest and sight of old friend. Could I run out and spend Sunday with you, dear? Are there any nice men in your eminently select suburb? I'm sick of the sight of these country bumpkins—

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat, but go to A. R. McIntyre Drug Co. or any good druggist, and get a box of Oil of Korein capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body.

It costs little, is absolutely harmless and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat.—Advertisement.

ANOTHER WOMAN IS THE VICTIM OF GASOLINE

Twin Falls, Ida., July 20.—After nearly a week of intense suffering Miss Beulah McMaster of this city died at the Twin Falls hospital as the result of burns received Thursday of last week.

The accident which cost her life and which endangered the life of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Willard McMaster, occurred at the home of her sister, Mrs. L. G. Stettler, at Kimberly, whose 3-year-old son attempted to wash the steps of an outside cellar with gasoline.

Miss Beulah and Mrs. McMaster went down later and with the striking of a match a terrible explosion occurred. Both young women were terribly burned. Hopes are entertained for the recovery of Mrs. McMaster, although her condition is serious.

Funeral services for Miss Beulah were held this morning at the home of her uncle and guardian, C. A. McMaster. She was an orphan and leaves four sisters and three brothers, heirs to a large estate left by their father, John N. McMaster, who was well-known throughout the community. She was prominent in musical and religious work among the younger set and a member of the Twin Falls high school.

WOMAN A PHYSICAL WRECK

Tells in Following Letter How She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Milwaukee, Wis.—"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was a physical wreck. I had been going to a doctor for several years but he did me no good. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I decided to give it a fair trial, and it gave me relief from bearing down pains which had been so bad that I would have to lie down. I also used the Sanative Wash and it has done me a great deal of good, and I am not troubled with a weakness any more."—Mrs. P. L. BRILL, 1239 Booth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

The most successful remedy for woman's ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test for forty years, which would be impossible if it did not have genuine merit.

For special advice, free, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

MARRIAGE TANGLE OF AN ENGLISHMAN

London, July 20.—An extraordinary matrimonial tangle was disclosed here when Mrs. Dorothy Violet Geraldine Robinson asked for and procured the annulment of her marriage to Edward Ernest Robinson here.

According to evidence produced, Robinson married Jessie Hawtrey in 1878 and took her to America, where in 1883 he deserted her and returned to England. Six years later she got a divorce in California.

Robinson's second matrimonial venture was in 1893, when he married Ethel Beatrice Strickland in London. Later she learned of his first marriage and started annulment proceedings, which secured a decree for her on November 8, 1901. But she had anticipated matters a little by marrying Captain Monk Mason the previous June. She didn't tell Captain Mason about Robinson and they went to India with the captain, still ignorant of her first match.

In 1907 she returned alone to England on account of ill health. She met Robinson and went to live with him. He persuaded her that her decree of annulment was invalid and that his first wife, who in the meantime, had married again, was not really his wife. Then Mason sued and got a divorce and $10,000 damages from Robinson as correspondent.

In July, 1908, Robinson met the present petitioner and was smitten. He told her he was in the British diplomatic service and married her in Portsmouth, February 14, 1911, giving the name of Cecil Raymond Robinson. He deserted her in October, 1912.

In June, 1913, she located him living in style under the name of Robert Mason at the Grosvenor hotel, Victoria, and commenced various court proceedings. The war added to her troubles, for two sets of divorce papers needed in the case were lost coming from the United States through the torpedoing of vessels and the third set only recently arrived.

The court flayed the character of the philandering Robinson and awarded the wife a decree of annulment, with costs and the custody of their child.

A motion to increase the salaries of head camp officers was voted down. Several delegates declared minor officials and employees should be taken on the latter proposition.

The question of admission of women into the order is to come before the convention tomorrow.

Selection of the place for holding the next triennial head camp sessions is to be made the first day, it was announced. Boise, Idaho, Pueblo, Colo., and Reno, Nev., are in the race for the next convention city.

NEGLIGENCE ALLEGED.

Negligence is charged against the company.

In the Treatment of Tuberculosis

remember that first aid to relief is found in abundance of fresh air—day and night—freedom from over-exertion, and pure food.

Attention to these matters should do much to arrest the progress of the malady, but in many cases there is need for extra help. Where Nature has to work with a weakened body, her power is limited.

Under such circumstances, try Eckman's Alternative, which has been used with large benefit by many sufferers. In numerous cases it has helped to bring about recovery. Also, it has been successful in treating asthma and bronchial troubles.

And since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, its use is not attended with danger. At your druggist's.

DANGERS FACED BY ENGLAND IN INDIA

London, July 20, 9:31 p. m.—Replying to a severe denunciation of the Mesopotamia campaign by Lord Wemyss, in introducing his motion in the house of lords demanding an investigation, the Marquis of Crewe, lord president of the council, said that in the critical moments of August, 1914, it was imperative for Great Britain to reassert her paramount position in the Persian gulf and prevent the declaration of a holy war.

"Our presence there," he continued, "I believe saved the empire from the approach of a great disaster. We had to consider the great Moslem population of Africa also, and if we had not shown our strength, Islam as a whole might have been deflected against us."

He referred to the difficulties confronting the Indian government, and said that from December, 1914, to September following, there had been no less than seven separate attacks, some of a very formidable character, on India's northwest frontier; and contended that before passing final judgment on the Indian officials it would be necessary to consider the particular system of military organization there.

Lord Crewe then made a statement similar to that of Premier Asquith in the house of commons.

Lord Crowder, who followed, admitted that the Marquis of Crewe's statement changed the aspect of the debate. He did not desire to stir the embers of a rather heated controversy of a few years ago. He thought Kitchener had made a mistake in the military changes he had introduced in India, and while it would be a great exaggeration to say that the misfortune of the Mesopotamia campaign was the outcome of these changes, he could not help thinking that they largely contributed to that misfortune.

In response to many questions as to whether matters now were satisfactory Earl Curzon, lord privy seal, read an official dispatch testifying that everything possible was being done in connection with the Mesopotamia campaign.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.

Recruit Guard to War Strength

Salt Lake, July 21.—There is an urgent need of between 300 and 400 recruits to fill the existing units of the organized militia of the state of Utah, now on duty on the Mexican border, up to war strength and a systematic campaign to fill the vacancies will be waged by officers of the national guard of Utah, working in connection with the recruiting officers for the regular army. The several organizations of the national guard of Utah now on the border, consisting of the First battery, field artillery, and two squadrons of the First cavalry, and the field hospital, numbering approximately 800 men in all, are recruited only to the minimum strength prescribed by army regulations, or about two-thirds of the war strength.

Lieutenant T. D. Foster, who Wednesday was taken from the retired list and restored to active duty and assigned to recruiting service, with Lieutenant Preston J. Cannon and Lieutenant Paul B. King will form the corps of recruiting officers designated by the state on orders from the war department and will open stations for the enlistment of men in various parts of the state.

PIONEER TAKES POISON. Kemmerer, Wyo., July 20.—John Stringer, well-known pioneer resident

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intestinal nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of doing with opiates or narcotics to keep children steady in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.
